

PLATO Learning Solutions vCourses Services

Virtual courses. Real partnership.

Optimizing virtual course effectiveness for superior results

To effectively implement and maintain a virtual learning program, you need more than virtual courses, you need a real partner. PLATO Learning has the capabilities – the expertise, the experience, the commitment – to ensure that your vCourses virtual learning program delivers extraordinary results.

Experienced Partner. Proven Success.

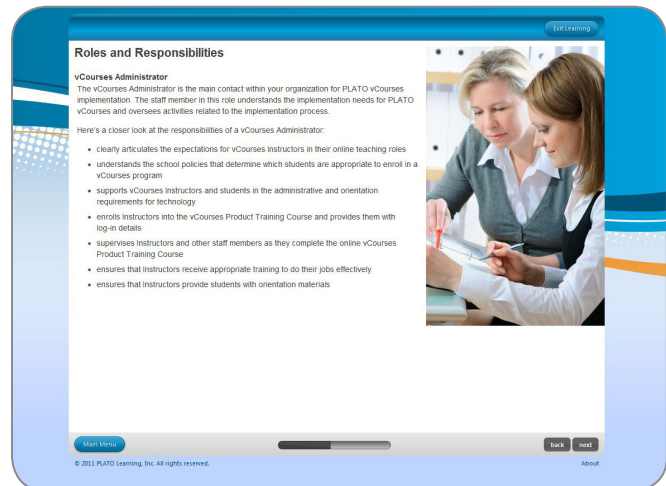

94% of PLATO Learning Education Consultants have experience as an administrator or teacher, and two-thirds hold master's degrees

58,000 hours of professional services training delivered since 2009

5.77 average customer survey score on a scale of 1-6

Equipping you to empower learners

PLATO vCourses are designed specifically for virtual programs and come ready to use, with intuitive learner, teacher, and administrator interfaces and efficient and optimized workflows. But it is vCourses product training that helps you turn your virtual courses into a real solution.

vCourses Product Training

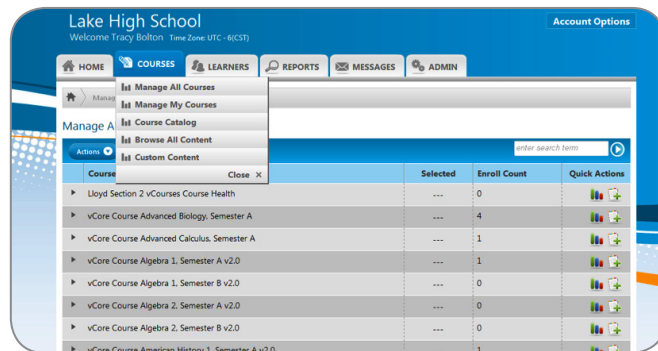

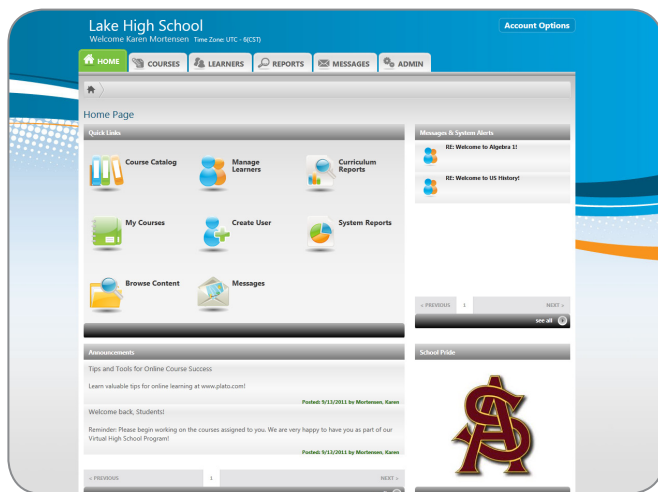

vCourses Product Training consists of two components.

- Administrator Orientation
- Instructor Product Training Course

Administrator Orientation

Administrator orientation is required for all vCourses implementations. It covers essential administrative functions such as:

- Logging in
- Enrolling teachers
- Enrolling students
- Managing and conducting product training
- Report management

The orientation is a two-hour live virtual session for up to 10 vCourses administrators. This is the initial training session that will help get your virtual courses up and running quickly.

Instructor Product Training Course

Instructor product training is an asynchronous, license-based course that effectively prepares teachers to make the most of vCourses and your virtual learning program. Delivered online, through the vCourses Platform the product training course gives instructors valuable and practical information while also providing them with the vCourses learning experience. Product training is required in order to make sure that teachers can leverage all of the features and benefits of vCourses, including resequencing content and effectively using reporting to guide instruction.

In addition to the Administrator Orientation and Instructor Product Training Course, we also offer complete end-to-end virtual and on-site implementation consulting and services to partner with you in designing, developing, and deploying your virtual learning program

Additional Product Training Resources

The vCourses Orientation Toolkits

The vCourses toolkits get you started and are your guides to the range of support resources available to you. Toolkits are provided for administrators, instructors, and students, and provide each audience with a comprehensive roadmap of how to effectively navigate vCourses in your virtual learning program.

PLATO vCourses

Rigorous and effective courses, optimized for virtual programs.

The right partner and the right solution for delivering the virtual learning your students expect. Learn more by visiting www.plato.com, or call 800.44PLATO.

800.44.PLATO www.plato.com